A. S. Taylor has contracted for the sale of his farm, 2 1-2 miles north of Keytesville, to Scott Hershey. The price for the 160 acres Mr. Taylor sold to Mr. Hershey was, we understand, $62.50 an acre. The new owner takes possession at once. It is probable that Mr. Taylor will build a nice home on the 20 acre tract of land that he owns on the southern outskirts of our little city.

Many of the COURIER's "most constant" readers are not subscribers to this paper, but they ought to be if they wish to have a clear conscience and sleep well. We don't blame you, friends, for reading the COURIER, but don't you think you should have one of your own and not sponge on your more generous and more considerate neighbors? Let your answer be a dollar in cash left at this office.

The forcible entry and detainer suit of J. B. Cooper against Frank Wilson, was tried by a jury in Justice Wm. P. Jared's court in Keytesville Friday. A verdict was returned for defendant. Cooper charged Wilson with forcibly entering and detaining the old "Grandma" Wilson residence property in the northwest part of town, and in which Mrs. J. B. Cooper and Frank Wilson both claim an interest.

Gentle reader, please look at the date opposite your name on the label of your COURIER, and if you find your subscription has expired we would be pleased to have you renew. And if you have a neighbor, who is not a subscriber to the Great Favorite Weekly, and can induce him to send a dollar along with yours, you may call on us for a treat the next time you come to town. Many of our friends are sending us new subscribers right along. Why not you, too?

No citizen who wishes to keep posted on Chariton county's affairs can afford to be without the COURIER, for it gives all the news of all the county all the time.

E. J. Huguen, who came to this county from Nebraska some five or six years ago and bought a farm, 3 1-2 miles west of Keytesville, but who sold out last fall, has decided to return to Nebraska, having bought a 320-acre ranch in Dawson county, that state.

Special

Announcement

I wish to inform my friends and patrons and the public in general that I have again secured the services of Mr. Wm. L. Hamilton, in the Jewelry and Optical Dept. Mr. Hamilton was with me in 1902 and '03 and is, therefore, well known to most of you.

The past year he has worked with Messrs. F. T. Webber & Co., of Danville, Ill., watch-inspectors C. & E. I., C. C. C. & St. L., Calumet & Frisco, and is, therefore, an Expert on Fine Watch Work.

Since securing his services I can now promise to again turn out all work promptly that may be entrusted to me, and with the assurance it is well and properly done.

Soliciting your patronage and thanking all kindly for favors in the past, I am,

YOURS VERY TRULY,

H. M. SIGLOCH

Paint and Paper

Spring has arrived, and with it comes the desire to brighten and beautify in keeping with the joyful season. There is no more attractive way to do this than to paint and paper your home or place of business. I am agent for the celebrated Paints and Oils, manufactured by the Meyer Bros.' Drug Co. of St. Louis, which guarantees its brand of

made from a white base, to be composed of STRICTLY PURE CARBON-ATE OF LEAD, STRICTLY PURE OXIDE OF ZINC, STRICTLY PURE LINSEED OIL, STRICTLY PURE TURPENTINE AND STRICTLY PURE JAPAN, together with the coloring matter necessary to produce the different colors. The proprietors further guarantee if the wood is in proper shape and the paint applied by a practical painter, that two-coat work will wear five years, and that it will not chalk, scale or flake off. If these conditions are complied with, and the work proves unsatisfactory through the fault of the paint, sufficient material will be furnished to do the work over. What more could you ask?

WALL PAPER

I am pleased to announce to my customers that I have the largest, most varied and handsomest line of Wall Paper ever seen in this part of Chariton County. You will more fully appreciate this when I tell you that I bought my stock of Wall Paper right and am selling it at a very small margin of profit. My drug and jewelry departments are being kept up to their usual high standard. You can always find what you want here, and I am sure I can give you the best of satisfaction.

YOURS RESPECTFULLY,

E. W. HERRING,

Keytesville, Missouri.

Wm. E. Hill returned the first of the week from his visit to Kansas City and St. Joseph.

The February, 1906, adjourned term of county court meets next Monday, March 5, for the purpose of making final settlements with the various township collectors.

Wood for Sale.

Long wood, cord wood and stove wood delivered in town. Leave cash and order with E. B. KELLOGG.

Frank Ward, who moved from the vicinity of Mendon to Marshallfield, Mo., a few years ago, writes us to send him the COURIER at the Arcade hotel, Perry, Okla., where he is now making his home.

W. H. Finch of Brunswick has written a true biography of Angus A. Kennedy of that city. The work is complete and ranges from the cradle to the grave. It's awfully rich, and the only thing that Angus objects to is the "grave" He is not ready yet to be laid in his last, long resting place, and Mr. Finch will have to do the funeral act again when Angus is not in condition to kick about it.

J. H. Leonare, who is now a St. Louis policeman, spent a few days this week visiting friends and relatives in and near Keytesville. He went from here to Brunswick to see his mother and sister, Mrs. Missouri Leonard and Mrs. Lee Cravens.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Willett and son, Jim Ben, have returned from their visit to Mrs. Willett's father, J. F. Lucas of near Galveston, Tex. They report a fine time and brought back several curiosities from the Lone Star state, including some rattan, deer skins and antlers, a cabbage stalk about three feet tall and many shells they gathered from the shores of the Gulf of Mexico. Mr. Willett went on a deer hunt about 150 miles from Galveston and was standing near one of the party who shot and brought down a very fine buck, the hide of which was presented to "Bill" and he will make into a rug.

The COURIER would like to see every business enterprise in Keytesville represented in its advertising columns. In no town in the state the size of the capital of Chariton county have the merchants such a splendid opportunity to advertise their wares as is afforded by this paper. The COURIER not only has much the largest circulation, but, as we have stated before, it is enrolling more new subscribers from week to week than all other publications in this county put together. If you are wise it will not be necessary to give you another hint. If you are not wise you should lose no more time in posting your and becoming wise.

Call on me and see what this means.

E. B. KELLOGG.

Don't let the rats and mice eat you up. One 10-cent box of Sweeney's poison wheat will rid your premises of these pests. Sold by druggists.

B. J. Patrick, who owned and lived on a farm, six miles north-east of Keytesville, for several years, but sold out two years ago and moved to Moberly, writes us as follows from Los Angeles, Cal.: "I arrived at this place with my family the 18th inst., and from what little observation I have made so far this is surely a fine climate as flowers of many kinds are in full bloom and the orange and lemon trees are full of nice, ripe fruit." Mr. Patrick orders the COURIER sent to him at 1027 East Twenty-fourth street, Los Angeles.

Blaine Dewey, an unsavory colored character of Keytesville, on a plea of guilty before Mayor H. J. West, was fined $1 and costs Saturday for disturbing the peace of Constable and Deputy Sheriff John M. Foley of Salisbury and his prisoner, "Sleek" McCrary, the negro who killed Gertrude Dameron, col., in Salisbury early Saturday morning. The woman murdered was a relative of Blaine Dewey. Blaine went over to attend the coroner's inquest, and became possessed of a burning desire, after getting on the outside of a liberal supply of red liquor, to slay McCrary. He came over on the same train from Salisbury as did Foley and McCrary, and upon reaching Keytesville Blaine thirsted for McCrary's gore to such an extent that disturbed the peace of McCrary and the officer who had him in charge, but Mayor West did think it was over a dollar's worth and assessed a fine accordingly. Blaine's physical energies are now being exhausted in cleaning street-crossings, until his fine and costs are paid, which is a good deal better than committing murder.
